Boost in Taxes Recommended By Farm Bureau

Increase Proposed To Halt Inflation; Other Views Given

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—A steep increase in taxes is a better way to combat inflation than is provided by price and wage controls, the American Farm Bureau Federation said today.

"Taxes can be reduced when the emergency has passed," Federation President Allan B. Kline said, "but if we destroy the value of our money and tie up our economy with direct controls, we may never be able to return to the 'free choice' system through which our unparalleled progress has been made possible."

Kline prepared a statement for the Senate finance committee, now holding hearings on a House-approved $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill. The Truman administration has asked for $10,000,000,000 in new revenue.

In advance of today's session (9 A. M., EST), Senator Hugh Butler (R-Neb.) said the Senate ought to put off action on the measure until November if the Korean cease-fire talks lead to "an era of peace."

Butler, a member of the finance committee, told a reporter that it happens "it should be possible to get by with a sharply smaller increase" than that voted by the House last month.

For the Farm Bureau, Kline recommended "a substantial increase" in income taxes, corporation and excise (sales) levies to bring "consumer purchasing power more nearly into line with the prospective reduced supply of goods available for civilian consumption."

"If we are to preserve our freedom," he said, "we must be free from inflation." (Please turn to Page Two)

Controls Are Urged To Curb Inflation

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Eric Johnston told the nation today to look for "a much cheaper dollar"—worth perhaps 30 to 40 cents in 1939 terms—if economic controls are scrapped.

Declaring the dollar is now worth about 53 to 54 cents in 1939 value, Johnston said "my guess is that it might be worth between 30 and 40 cents in 1939 purchasing power, in ten years, if you don't do something about inflation."

Johnston, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report, predicted a government deficit this year of from $5,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000.

And under the present defense program, he estimated the cash deficit in the budget would be "up to 20 or 25 billion" for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 1952.

Of the deficit he predicted for fiscal 1951, Johnston added: "Now that isn't too great. Probably we can live with it, provided Congress gives us adequate controls—stronger, not weaker controls."

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to end the state of war between the United States and Germany. He said that unfortunately Russia had made a final peace settlement impossible at this time.

Mr. Truman's action was part of a coordinated move by the western Allies. The French cabinet approved a decree to the same end although it was not clear whether it was effective immediately or must await the formation of a new cabinet in the next few days.

At the same time Great Britain ceased to be in a state of war with Germany as from today, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons.

Three members of the British commonwealth—acting in advance—ended their state of war with the Germans. They were Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. New Zealand also announced the end of its state of war with Austria.

The move was of major importance in the east-west battle for the minds and support of the German people.

It also has some practical advantages for the Germans although it will not end the occupation by the western powers.

With the state of war at an end, Germans will be able to travel or do business in the United States as nationals of a friendly government rather than as enemy aliens.

Also, Germans will be able to bring suits in U. S. courts.

Specifically, Mr. Truman asked that Congress adopt a resolution declaring the state of war with Germany shall be terminated at such date as the president proclaims.

This country has been in a state of war with Germany since Dec. 11, 1941.

The president's request was made in identical letters to the presiding officers of the Senate and House—Vice President Barkley and Speaker Rayburn.

The communication hit repeatedly at Russia, thus emphasizing the psychological importance of the move.

Mr. Truman said the western Allies had sought to build up a freely elected German government and return to the German people "an increasing degree of control over their affairs."

He continued: "Unfortunately for all of us, however, and especially for the people of Germany, Soviet Russia has actively prevented the growth of a representative democratic government in a unified Germany, and has thus made impossible for the time being the arrangement of a final peace settlement. The Soviet effort has been, instead, to cut the eastern third of Germany away from the rest of the country and to develop it as a province of the new Soviet empire."

Mr. Truman said ending the state of war "will give the German people a new demonstration of our desire to help bring them back to membership among the nations of the free world."

"It will represent another and logical step on the road which leads toward the eventual restoration of German independence," the president added.

Mr. Truman said the resolution also should provide that this country may continue to seize German property, under the provisions of the trading with the enemy act, in spite of the technical end of the state of war.

In today's letters, Mr. Truman said Russia "has actively prevented the growth of a representative democratic government in a unified Germany, and has thus made impossible for the time being the arrangement of a final peace settlement."

Action Is Deferred On Resignation of County Treasurer

The resignation of Charles Fabb, treasurer of Fayette County, announced last Friday, was reported by the county commissioners Monday as being a surprise.

No action was taken Monday by the commissioners with reference to the resignation, since Homer Miller, president of the board was not in attendance. Fabb also was absent from his office and was not available for conference.

As a result of this situation the other two members of the board, Ralph Minton and Cliff Hughes, decided to hold Monday's meeting open to wait until Miller is able to be present before closing the minutes of the Monday session. Any action taken by the board as a whole therefore will appear as being a part of the Monday session.

Both Minton and Hughes expressed surprise that the letter of resignation from Fabb had been sent to Minton, instead of to Homer Miller, president of the board of commissioners. The date set by Fabb for his resignation to become effective, was July 15.

The salary of the office of county treasurer, is $204.74 per month according to the county auditor's office. Of this amount $10.23 per month is deducted on the retirement fund schedule, which is returned in case of resignation or retirement. Federal taxes to the amount of $27 and hospital insurance in the amount of $3.50 also are deductions each month. It is pointed out that under the new law passed by the last Ohio General Assembly, the minimum salary for the office, effective after the end of the present county treasurer's term expires, will be $2,600 per year.

If Fabb's resignation is accepted, it will be up to the county commissioners to appoint a successor who will hold the office until a successor is elected and qualified. Fabb's present term does not expire until September, 1953, although if he leaves office now his successor will be elected in November of 1952.

Color TV by RCA Shown to Newsmen

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Radio Corp. of America's improved color television was shown to newsmen today on special color sets while tens of thousands of home viewers watched a black and white version on regular sets.

The quality of RCA's color compared favorably with that of the Columbia Broadcasting System, now in commercial operation. To a layman observer, it appeared to be quite as vivid and warm as CBS color but to have a slight advantage in producing flesh tones. Also, it was less distracting to watch directly on the face of the RCA tri-color tube than the CBS color which is viewed through a magnifier and a motor-driven color disc in front of the picture tube.

The color telecast, featuring stars of the stage screen and music world, was the start of field tests by RCA in an effort to get renewed consideration of its color video by the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC has adopted the method of the rival CBS as the national standard and CBS is telecasting its color on a regular commercial basis.

RCA made much of the fact that the color telecast, on an experimental basis, could be received in black and white on any standard set without any added equipment or alteration.

Tension Created By Gag on News At Negotiations

Battlefront Troops 'Keep Powder Dry' During Conferences

SEOUL, Korea, July 9—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned tonight there was no real guarantee peace in Korea will come from the armistice negotiations opening Tuesday in Kaesong.

With the start of cease-fire talks only hours away, Ridgway said:

"Whether there is to be good faith or not is only to be judged by performance, and we haven't come to the performance stage x x x. Agreement on an armistice must precede a cessation of hostilities."

The supreme commander was addressing correspondents on news coverage of the full scale negotiations. The correspondents have demanded western press representation at the historic event.

Ridgway indicated there would be no western newsmen at Tuesday's session—but there might be at later sessions.

He disclosed he personally selected the five United Nations peace envoys and that he reserved the right "to change the delegates at any time."

Earlier Monday Ridgway flew to Seoul from Tokyo with three of his envoys. Shortly thereafter they travelled by light planes to the advanced "peace camp" near Munsan, where the other two members of the delegation were waiting.

Ridgway gave his envoys their final instructions, then returned to Seoul.

The peace camp is only a few minutes by air from Kaesong, the (Please turn to Page Eight)

Drug Addiction Ohio Problem

COLUMBUS, July 9—(AP)—Teen-aged drug addiction definitely is a problem in Ohio, a federal narcotics agent informed the governor's special conference today.

"The problem is here," said Joseph Bell, district U. S. narcotics agent, at a conference of Gov. Frank J. Lausche and 19 representatives of state and local enforcement agencies. "Maybe we can do something before it is too late."

Bell was the first speaker at the conference. Governor Lausche opened the session by outlining a four-point attack on the narcotics problems spotlighted by recent Senate investigating committee hearings.

Governor Lausche asked conference members for a cooperative program based on the following: (1) Gravity of the situation; (2) cooperation in apprehending peddlers of drugs, and other narcotics offenders; (3) means to "persuade the judiciary to deal harshly with peddlers and (4) examination of state and federal laws to determine if they are adequate. In dealing with persons "who pander to addicts and engage in traffic of drugs for the money they can make."

More National Guards May Be Called to Duty

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—The calling up of two or three more National Guard divisions as part of a proposal to strengthen the army by six divisions is reported to be under consideration.

This was learned over the week-end from Defense Department officials who may not be named. They said no final decision has been made.

Sen. Taft Is Now Writing Book With Eye on Presidential Race

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) has finished writing a book on "foreign policy for Americans" which might become a reference work for friend and foe in the 1952 campaign.

Unless developments change his mind, Taft probably will formally pitch his hat into the ring this fall for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

His new book, due in December, will put the Ohioan down in

Improvement Program At Children's Home Is Before Commissioners

An estimate totaling approximately $28,000 to cover interior repairs and improvements reported needed soon at the Fayette County Children's Home, was presented to the Board of Fayette County Commissioners at its regular session Monday morning in the Court House. Homer Miller, president of the board was not present.

This amount, was figured as being needed to improve and replace some facilities in bathrooms and toilets, dormitory, staircase, electrical work and some other spots in the buildings to meet state code requirements. This is in addition to some repair work on the roof now being done.

Norman Armbrust, superintendent of the county home and secretary of the Fayette County Child Welfare Board, presented the statement of estimate as prepared by Curtis Insko, Columbus architect, who had made a visit to the home.

These proposed repairs and improvement do not cover the improvement as a whole regarded as necessary at the county home.

For this reason the county commissioners advised Armbrust that their board would make an inspection visit at the institution soon and at that time would endeavor to determine what construction program would be advisable and how far reaching it should be.

The commissioners have been thinking seriously of a five year plan for improvements there if they can find the money, by some means, in the general fund for such work. It is possible that the commissioners may later decide to place the whole matter for these needed improvements before the people in the form of a bond issue for a vote. This has not as yet been decided upon but may get some consideration.

It has been pointed out that if such a bond issue was put up and would be approved by the voters, the entire improvement which is considered necessary could be taken care of at one time. The Children's Home has not undergone any major improvement in more than 30 years.

Doctor Draft To Start Soon

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Selective Service said today the first doctors among 717 to be called up this month probably will be drafted for the armed services on July 23.

Although the physicians have been notified to report for induction, they still can apply voluntarily for commissions, the agency said.

It added that the 717 notified to report in July must do so even if a considerable number of other physicians should volunteer. It said voluntary applications for commissions might cut down future calls but would not affect those already ordered.

Storms Lash Midwest; Death and Ruin in Wake

(By The Associated Press)
Wind-whipped rain and hail hit the Midwest Sunday, causing six deaths and heavy property damage.

Severe storms hit parts of Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri and Kansas but in Wisconsin practically the whole state felt the blows of wild weather.

Five deaths occurred in Michigan. A sudden gust upset a boat in Crystal Lake, near Greenville, drowning three persons. At Grand Rapids a man was crushed when a tractor overturned as he tried to clear his boat channel of a wind-felled tree. Near Muskegon, a motorist swerved to avoid a large tree limb blown into the road and crashed into a ditch, killing his wife.

An 83-year-old man died of a heart attack when the storm blew over a barn on the Rockfield, Wis., farm where he lived.

In Wisconsin, winds, lightning, rain and hail caused damage expected to exceed $1,000,000. The St. Mary of the Lake Catholic Church across Lake Mendota from Madison was destroyed when it was struck by lightning and set afire.

Crops in the Pecatonica Valley were ruined when 5.8 inches of rain fell in an eight hour period. The downtown section of Darlington was under water.

In Iowa, communities in the northern part of the state were hit by a series of hard rains and high winds. Many farm buildings were damaged and power and telephone lines were out.

Central Minnesota took a good dousing with St. Cloud reporting 2.14 inches of rain in less than an hour. A 55-mile-an-hour wind grounded wires and knocked down trees and signs in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

At Leavenworth, Kas., a heavy downpour sent Five-Mile Creek out of its banks and flooded many homes. A windstorm disrupted communications and four minor fires were started by short circuits at Emporia.

Heavy rain and hail covered an area northwest of Kansas City. Illinois also had a taste of the wind and rain. Six inches of rain fell in Sterling, in northwestern Illinois.

Guard for Pope Wants Pay Boost

VATICAN CITY, July 9—(AP)—The pope's famed Swiss guards want a raise. They say their $50 a month salaries are more in line with the union's medieval traditions than with modern prices.

In an open letter to Roman newspapers, the guards said 16 of their number have already quit and gone home to Switzerland because they could not support their families on wages paid.

They said after several requests for pay raises the Vatican offered $1.50 a month more which they angrily rejected.

Truck Runs Wild Down Mountain

WURTSBORO, N. Y., July 9—(AP)—A steep Catskill Mountain road yesterday became a mile-long bowling alley in which a crashed, 30-ton trailer truck crashed into 11 automobiles.

Four persons died and 16 were hurt, two critically, in the flaming wreckage.

The driver of the truck, Marsdon H. Reese, Jr., 28, of Bayonne, N. J., miraculously escaped injury.

However, five hours after the accident he was charged with criminal negligence and held in $5,000 bail.

State police said many of the deaths and injuries were due to flames that enveloped the truck and at least four of the cars.

The truck was loaded with highly-inflammable propane gas in cylinders. But it was the big vehicle's fuel supply, and not the propane, that caught fire as it sideswiped the first of a long line of passenger cars.

Many of the cars the truck ripped into were halted at traffic light at the bottom of the grade.

The truck roared on, crashing, sideswiping and spraying flames of fuel oil. It rounded a long, sweeping curve and then came to rest in the middle of the road against a taxicab. Three passengers in the cab burned to death.

The victims were from New York City. Reese was quoted by state police as saying he was going downhill when his air brakes gave out.

Meteor Bursts Over Michigan

Residents Here See Phenomenon

Another big meteor was seen by many Fayette countians and a great number of other residents in three states about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

The meteor apparently centered over the area between Toledo and Detroit, where it was observed to burst and scatter fragments in all directions.

The flash was reported variously at Springfield, Cleveland, and Toledo in Ohio, and Flint, Pontiac, Lansing, Jackson and Detroit in Michigan.

Observers at Flint said they saw it fall to the ground near there, but sheriff's deputies could find no trace of it.

Dr. Jason J. Nassau of the Warney and Swasey Observatory at Case Tech in Cleveland said "it was not a meteorite, but a meteor. Meteors do not reach the earth, but burn up."

Observers here did not see the meteor burst, but did see it fall and leave a blazing trail as it dropped.

Last Monday night at almost the same time a big meteor was observed by local residents, who saw it burst and scatter fragments, with a large portion of it shooting off eastward for some distance before it vanished.

Rev. Knisley read the Scripture, offered prayer, delivered the sermon and read a memoir.

Coyt Cleary sang two hymns, with Mrs. Mary McGee playing the accompaniment.

The funeral was well attended, and there were many beautiful flowers, cared for by the following pallbearers: Clarence Fox, Russ Willis, Ward Dean, Charles Drake, Scott Stevenson and Harry Wallace.

Burial was made in the New Holland Cemetery.

Farm Bureau View

As for the Senate consideration of the bill, Senator Butler said he favors going ahead with the hearings and perhaps to the point of a tentative committee decision about a tax increase.

"But I think we ought to defer final action, in the Senate itself anyway, until November or so," he added. "With these negotiations going on in Korea the situation is so uncertain I think it would not be wise to move before then."

Opposite Theory

Former Undersecretary of the treasury told senators today the House-passed $7,200,000,000 tax increase bill will promote inflation rather than retard it.

Roswell Magill, now a New York attorney, said this is true because of stiff boosts in corporation taxes and the levies on middle and upper bracket incomes.

These hikes "will discourage new investment and additional production; and at the same time will cause higher prices to the consumer, since a good part of the increased corporate taxes will have to be passed on," Magill told the Senate finance committee.

He wanted to know what incentive a high-income man would have to work harder and produce more if he "can keep only five cents or 10 cents out of any additional dollar earned."

The attorney is chairman of the committee on federal tax policy which has been critical of federal fiscal policies. He was undersecretary of the treasury in 1937 and 1938.

Today's second witness, Russ Nixon of the left-wing United Electrical Workers Union, proposed the burden of taxes be shifted away from low-income families by sharply increasing exemptions in the individual income tax.

Child Pulls Dog's Tail; Badly Bitten

Little Jimmy Davis, who will be two years old next Monday, learned Sunday evening that there are two ends to a dog and if you pull one—the other end will bite.

Jimmy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davis of 506 Albin Avenue, received an inch and a half cut on his forehead, a bite on his ear and another on his upper lip when the big Shepherd dog, belonging to Walter Engle, turned on Jimmy after he had pulled the dog's tail.

The Davises were at a picnic on the Engle farm on the Snowhill Road, Sunday evening, and the members of the group had just seated themselves when Jimmy pulled the wrong end of the dog.

Mrs. Norma Wilson, who was sitting nearest to Jimmy and the dog, jumped up and grabbed Jimmy from the dog before it could do any more damage.

Mr. Davis took Jimmy to Memorial Hospital, where three stitches were taken in his head and one in his upper lip.

Jimmy is at home today and, other than the cuts and the increased knowledge, his only suffering is from a headache.

The dog was put under a regulation 14-day quarantine, but the health department feels sure the dog doesn't have any disease.

A traffic accident several days ago was dismissed Sunday and returned to his home 626 Yeoman Street.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—
This is an ABC on the oil crisis in Iran.

Iran has some industries, like sugar, tobacco, and oil. And its rich men, huge landowners and merchants, are among the wealthiest in the world. They run the government.

Nevertheless, only 25 percent of Iran's land is under cultivation and less than 1,600,000 of its 16,000,000 people can read and write. Only 3,000,000 of the 16,000,000 live in towns and cities.

The rest are peasants, tilling their own small acres or working on shares, or tribes that migrate around to feed their stocks. So Iran is truly feudal: a few rich and powerful men, the rest mostly ignorant poor.

Still, Iran is the greatest oil producer in the middle east. The British have been in its oil fields 40 years. In 1933 they made a 60-year deal with Iran through the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, controlled by the British government.

They'd produce almost all Iran's oil -- they've been doing so at the rate of about 700,000 barrels a day--and sell it abroad at a profit, giving Iran a royalty on every barrel produced.

This royalty has been vital to the Iranian government since it amounts to about one-third of its revenue. (There's an income tax law but it means practically nothing.)

British technicians run the industry. Iran doesn't have enough trained men for that work. And Britain has a tanker fleet of almost 200 ships to carry Iranian oil to Europe, Africa, India. The British navy runs on Iranian oil. So the oil is important to Britain and Iran.

Like other countries after the war, Iran developed an intense feeling of nationalism which resulted in passing a law last March for the government to take over --nationalize -- the oil industry. Although this went into effect May 1 Iran's seizure of the industry has been hardly more than a paper seizure. It raised a flag over the company's buildings.

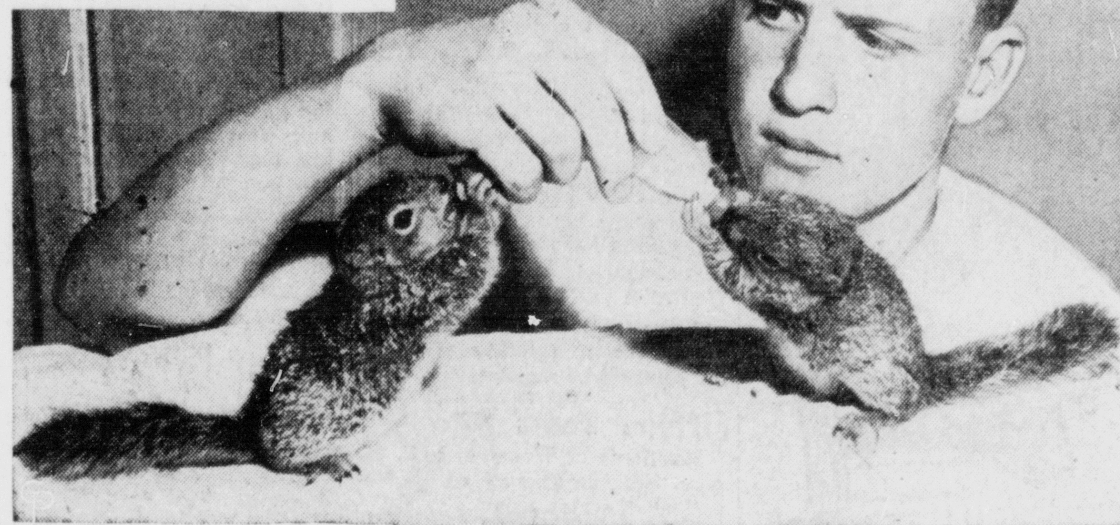

Since the British Socialist government has nationalized some industries of its own, it could hardly make a strong case against Iran's doing the same. But the two governments clashed over the kind of money settlement that should be made when Iran took over the industry.

Iran had one demand. The British suggested another plan. In addition, they demanded assurances Britain would continue to get oil. And they suggested that while Iran nationalized oil it should let the company act as its agent in running the industry. Iran got tough. In short, it wanted Britain to meet Iran's money demands before there were negotiations about anything else. That's where the negotiations broke down.

When Iran put on some pressure, the angry British told their tanker captains to clear out without Iranian oil and ordered their technicians to get ready to leave Iran altogether. This seemed to shock Iran a bit but one official, because of Britain's vital interest in Iranian oil, told a reporter yesterday he thinks the British are bluffing.

If the British leave, the industry must shut down until Iran gets, if it can get, technicians from other countries. But the biggest problem is finding ships to replace those 200 British tankers. This may be impossible. And without ships to move the oil, it must stay in the ground.

What happens if the British leave and Iran not only loses its royalties but must shut down its industry? It may dive into depression. Will the Communists be able to take over then? There's been fear expressed on that. Some of our own government people take this view:

Iran's Communist party, called Tudeh, has only a small following among students, young people and some factory workers. A depression wouldn't put them in key positions of power. But if the depression deepened into chaos it might.

If there's no Iranian oil for Europe's factories, the western oil companies must get their fuel from elsewhere. This would probably mean in this country a shortage of residual oil -- the kind used in factories -- but our experts say there'll be no need to ration gasoline or home heating oil.

The British have appealed to the international court of justice, which the United Nations created, for a solution. The court yesterday suggested Britain and Iran create a joint board to run the industry until the two sides reach an agreement. Iran refuses to accept any court suggestion.

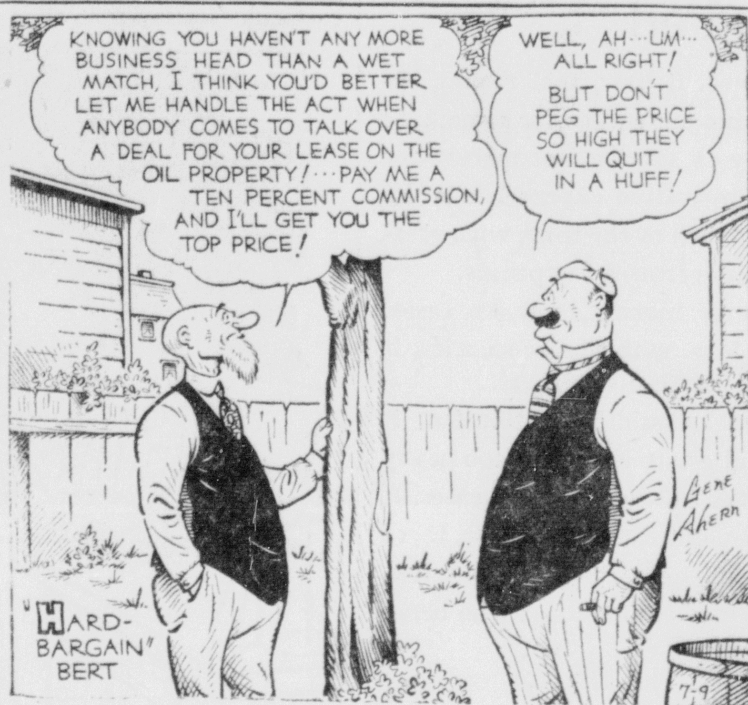

There's been some talk about Washington that this nationalization plan was cooked up by the reactionary ruling clique to divert from themselves that anger of the poor who are discontented over the lack of social reforms which cost money.

But others here in a position to know say this isn't so, that the nationalist spirit in Iran is sincere and widespread, shared in by the rich, poor and Communists.

ever, is a view not shared by the penitentiary's warden, Ralph W. Alvis.

"I don't see any rehabilitation value--or any other kind--in that type of a sentence," he said.

"Most such sentences are made in rural counties. They usually are attached to serious crimes like homicide, but we have two or three prisoners from Richland County we have to place in solitary on the anniversary of the day they attacked a deputy sheriff when trying to escape."

The warden said he thinks the punishment "seems a little unfair because some counties do it, others don't." But he added he has never talked to a prisoner to find out if he felt his morals had improved.

The sentencing judge can specify the hour solitary begins. If he doesn't, the warden begins the day at 6 A. M. and ends it at 6 A. M. the next morning.

Solitary confinement is not as grim as it once was. The prisoner gets regular meals and is allowed to read in his cell. But he is separated from other prisoners and gets no chance to exercise outside the cell.

The warden keeps a special file of prisoners who go on solitary once a year.

Ohio law gives judges the right to specify solitary confinement in their sentences.

Solitary Confinement Value In Rehabilitation of Convict Is Doubtful by Prison Warden

By WILLIAM K. TERRY

COLUMBUS, July 9 (AP)—The daily routine of eating and sleeping, working and recreation, of about 17 Ohio Penitentiary prisoners is broken up once a year.

That's when they are placed in solitary confinement to ponder over the crimes that landed them inside the penitentiary's gray walls. Most are convicted slayers.

The solitary confinement is part of the inmates' sentences as spelled out by judges. The dates the prisoners spend in solitary always are the anniversaries of the crimes.

Robert L. Jamison of Newark, is the latest to be placed in the group. Judge Charles B. Holtzberry on June 20 sentenced the 26-year-old aluminum plant worker to life in the slaying of a 23-year-old Newark mother of two.

Jamison was convicted of second degree murder, although he had been indicted for first degree. Mrs. Richard Loewendick was choked to death in her home last April 21. The judge decided that every April 21 Jamison must spend in solitary confinement.

He will be eligible for parole in 20 years.

Two years ago the same judge made solitary confinement part of the sentence of two men and a woman convicted of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy.

They are Mrs. Maxine Dermer Sullivan, 25; her brother, Robert Dermer, 21, and Alfred Ray Hefley, 24, found guilty of beating to death Edwin Hart outside his cafe in Newark.

Hart was killed on a Jan. 13. Every year on that date Dermer and Hefley are placed in solitary. The same happens to Mrs. Sullivan at the Women's Reformatory at Marysville.

The theory behind such sentences is that the prisoner, through thinking about his misdeeds, becomes better morally. That, how-

Every Tax Proposal Should Be Studied

At almost any place where a conversation is started these days, comments sooner or later lead around to the problem of taxes and public spending.

We hear it here in Washington C. H. and other parts of this county and we hear it in other cities and counties.

With the inflationary spiral the public is rapidly becoming more tax-conscious today than at any time for many years past.

One unfortunate effect of the top-heavy federal government spending program, with many recent revelations of wasteful buying, has been to cause most people here and in nearly every other city and county to object to local taxes, sometimes needed badly, on the theory that the only way to cut down on public spending is, as they put it, to "vote against every tax levy that comes up."

This is not the fair way to regard the local tax situation. If a special tax proposed is needed definitely for some purpose here at home, and if it is justified and not out of line, it should have honest and earnest consideration. We should not place the burden of our objections on local taxes because we are dissatisfied with what the federal or state government is doing. Yet that is the attitude most people take. We should place blame where it belongs and vote accordingly.

In fairness to all concerned any new local tax that is proposed should be studied thoroughly by the people before they become set against it. If it is not necessary, or is out of line, it should be defeated. If, however, it is voted down merely because the voter is against taxes on general principles, regardless of merit, a regrettable blunder may be made.

Taxpayers do want to be shown conclusively with honest figures, that money being sought by taxation will go for something really necessary in service, not merely for additional administrative expense as is the case, proven so much of the time, with present day federal government expenses.

Taxation money merely to make easier administrative jobs, with higher salaries, is certain to meet public disapproval.

One thing that should have attention is the fact that real estate is bearing too heavy a share of the tax burden in many cases. If new taxes are sought for any purpose, there should be thought given to a fair distribution of this tax load among those who benefit by such a tax.

Children and War

War should be outlawed if for no other reason than what it does to the children of any country involved in conflict. Casualties among the fighting men in Korea have been large, but until recently no mention was made of the children and the aged, whose homes have been destroyed, and who now face starvation.

Joe Quinn, a reporter just back from the Korean front, says there is no childish laughter in Korea these days. Those lucky enough to have been adopted by our soldiers have food and shelter of a sort.

Tens of thousands more, from 3 to 15 years of age, are just wanderers, with no place to eat or sleep, no one to mend their bruised and disease-wracked bodies. They live in cellars and caves, prowl half-naked through the streets and down the highways, stealing, begging, fighting to stay alive.

Long Struggle by Candlelight

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been years since many an American husband has seen his evening meal.

This is because of a growing desire by wives to dine by candlelight.

After a struggle of nearly 14 years against this odd feminine preference, I'd advise any young married man:

"If your bride insists on eating by candlelight, do as she says. And never ask her why."

That was the mistake I made. I asked too long and too often—and finally I got the bitter truth. But I will say I put up a stubborn fight.

The first night I came home and sat down to a candlelit table, I asked in honest innocence:

"What's the matter? Is the drug store out of light bulbs?"

"No," said Frances. "I just think it's nicer this way."

"But a man likes to see what he's eating," I objected. "What have you got against electric lights? Are you sure your mother wasn't frightened by an early picture of Thomas A. Edison?"

"Listen, you Junior Mark Twain," said Frances, "you might as well get used to candlelight now, because you are going to be eating by it a long time. So kindly shut up about it."

I thought this was just a phase brides went through, a kind of romantic hangover from the honeymoon. And I had the idea I could easily kid her out of it. (believe me, if he gave a man a brick for every wrong idea I've had about marriage, he could build a tower taller than the Washington monument.)

So the next night I showed up at dinner time with a lighted lantern. Frances simply blew it out, and the rest of the meal was rather chilly.

The following night -- how silly can one husband be? -- I opened a first aid kit, laid out some gauze and iodine by a candlestick and said:

"Just in case I cut myself in the dark."

Then I forked up some grub, bit down--and immediately began to splutter wildly.

"What'd you put on my plate?"

"I think you'll find it is gravel covered with chicken gravy," said Frances. "You like tricks? I like tricks, too."

That ended the tricks. Then it became my chore to light the candles. Every evening, just as I got comfortably settled behind the newspaper, Frances would come over, hand me a packet of matches and say, "all right, Rover, it's time to do your work."

Well, you know how small raindrops in time will wear down big mountains. I got so I detested those two candlesticks. But every time I demanded to know why we had to eat by tallow power, Frances always said:

"Oh, it's just nicer."

The other night I asked her "why?" For the 4,867th time.

"You finally asked just once too often," she said. "Go into the bathroom, turn on the electric light, and look at yourself in the mirror."

When I came back, she said:

"Did you take a good long look?"

"Yes, dear, but--"

"Well, Rover boy," she said, "every morning since 1937 I've had to wake up and look at your face in the bright sunshine. Do you mind too much if I'd rather see it at dinner by candlelight?"

Silently I struck a match and lit the two tall candles, and we sat down to the table.

"Now," said Frances cheerfully, "isn't this really nicer?"

As I say, don't press a wife too hard on why likes things a certain way. Sometimes it's better never to know.

Fact or Fiction about Commies

By George Sokolsky

It is not really important, so far as the Korean war is concerned, whether we call the troops who fought against us Chinese Communists or Chinese volunteers. It was Soviet China that on November 6 invaded Korea with the object of fighting the United States. As Dean Acheson put it, their object was to fight their way into the United Nations.

In a broader sense, the use of the term "volunteers" adds to all the new confusions that Soviet Russia has drawn from the Marxist Pan-a-dora's Box. Instead of a country having Allies, who are responsible, it calls for volunteers, which a nation may provide, without responsibility.

This concept appeared in the Spanish Civil war, the Fascists and Nazis supporting one side; Soviet Russia supporting the other. It was, in effect, an experimental war, each side testing its strength and methods against the other. The Fascists, Nazis, and Communists were volunteers in that war; so were the airplanes, tanks, arms and munitions. When the anti-Communists won and the regime now headed by Franco was set up, neither Italy, Germany nor Russia assumed any responsibility.

Now this concept is being fictitiously applied to the discussions concerning the Korean situation. Soviet China came into it as a volunteer. Although North Korea was defeated by General MacArthur, Soviet China entered the war, prolonged it, made an American victory impossible, created havoc within the United Nations, and now takes the position that it was a volunteer -- that, in fact, each individual Chinese soldier in that war was a volunteer.

The fiction is designed to eliminate, in whatever negotiations take place, Soviet China as an aggressor nation. It is astute reasoning on the part of the Soviets, but Soviet China should be held accountable for an international impropriety that cost American lives.

It is of importance at this moment to ask why the Korean war had to be prolonged. On March 24, General MacArthur spoke these words:

"Within the area of my authority as military commander, I stand ready at any time to confer in the field with the commander-in-chief of the enemy forces in an earnest effort to find any military means whereby the realization of the political objectives of the UN in Korea, to which no nation may take just exceptions, might be accomplished without further bloodshed."

On June 29, General Ridgway spoke these words:

"As commander-in-chief of the United Nations command, I have been instructed to communicate to you the following:

"I am informed that you may wish a meeting to discuss an armistice providing for the cessation of hostilities and all acts of armed force in Korea, with adequate guarantees for the maintenance of such armistice."

"Upon receipt of word from you that such a meeting is desired I shall be prepared to name my representative. I would also at that time suggest a date at which he could meet with your representative. I purpose that such a meeting could take place aboard a Danish hospital ship in Wonsan Harbor."

The spirit of the language is identical; the words are not far apart. The question therefore must be asked why General MacArthur was dismissed for doing what General Ridgway was instructed to do.

Obviously, some deal was being cooked up in March which General MacArthur spoiled by what apparently was a correct but, from the State Department's stand point, premature statement.

That deal was undoubtedly wrecked by the MacArthur dismissal which, whatever other purposes it served, forced the administration to alter its publicly declared policies.

Now we are to enter upon prolonged negotiations with Soviet China on the very questions which Soviet Russia has been demanding since 1948. The questions may be summarized as follows:

1. To obtain a seat in the United Nations as the only recognized government in China;
2. To be permitted to occupy Formosa and to abolish the Nationalist government, headed by Chiang Kai-Shek;
3. Succession to China's permanent seat on the security council of the United Nations;
4. The elimination of the United States from Asiatic affairs;
5. A seat at the conference for a treaty with Japan.

In pursuit of these policies, Soviet Russia boycotted the United Nations for six and one-half months. They conducted a worldwide phony peace campaign. They actually supplied a nation with the weapons of war, despite the assumption of the responsibility for that war by the United Nations. Having tested the persistence, if not the strength, of the United States, they have now assumed the peace offensive.

This is a moment of a show of real power in the diplomatic field. We ought not to lose again.

Scratches by Cat Cause of Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

It is rare indeed to discover an entirely new disease. Recently, however, such a new and different condition has been noted throughout the world as the result of scratches from cats' claws. Known as cat scratch disease, it involves infection of the lymphatic glands and tissue in the area of the scratch.

So far, the disorder has not taken a severe form and usually is not accompanied by any signs of generalized illness, except that the sedimentation rate of the individual, an index to the presence of infection, is raised. On the other hand, the blood count is usually normal, though there may be slight fever.

one or a whole group of glands.

Recovery from this condition occurs within several weeks to several months. Sometimes the swollen gland may rupture through the skin and drain for a number of months. Penicillin has not been found of any great benefit in these cases. However, treatment with aureomycin seemed to hasten recovery in one case.

Causative Agents

In a group of cases studied, the cats that scratched the individuals were not sick. Therefore, it was concluded that they probably just transmitted the causative agents by means of contaminated claws.

The new and entirely different condition due to cat scratches is not dangerous. However, it is well to keep this condition in mind and to see to it that children and others are protected from cat scratches.

Mystery of American Exodus In Southwest Being Studied; Ancient Civilization Uncovered

TUCSON — One of the most baffling mysteries of the southwest is under the scrutiny of scientific sleuths again.

Dr. Emil Haury, head of the department of anthropology and director of the Arizona State Museum, has opened his field school at Point-of-Pines in the White Mountains.

Haury, E. B. Sayles, curator of the museum, and 20 students from universities across the nation, are the detectives. They will dig into the ground seeking clues as to why thousands of people grabbed a few of their belongings and fled hundreds of years ago. They apparently disappeared from the face of the earth.

Why did they run? Where did they go? No one knows.

"We are no nearer a solution than when we started work six years ago," Dr. Haury says. "Perhaps we will never know the answers. We still hope to find clues that will help us, but you can never tell."

You have to go back to the time of Christ to understand the mystery. The missing civilization began to develop across the southwest. Century by century it progressed.

At first these early Americans lived in pit houses. Then they built pueblo-style buildings above the earth. Whole cities grew.

The lost city in the White Mountains housed thousands of people. The residents were smart. By intelligent use of water they had rich farms on land that the white man condemned as virtually useless.

They lived in an apparent paradise. The country was filled with game, the rivers with fish. They had plenty of wood and rock with which to build their homes.

This ancient civilization had an apartment house containing upwards of 800 rooms on the ground floor. Its storage bins contained corn long before the white world knew such a grain existed.

Then, some time in the 1400's, every man, woman and child disappeared.

"They left in haste," Dr. Haury explains. "The late ruins that we have uncovered are filled with material."

Suppose you had to leave your city on foot by the end of next week. You would probably select the smallest and most cherished items that you could carry and leave everything else behind.

That's what these early Arizonians did.

The excavated rooms contain jewelry, stone axes, precious arrowheads and children's toys. The residents left in a rush, and never returned.

"We have not uncovered the slightest signs of violence, such as you would expect to find if they had been attacked," Dr. Haury says.

If they had been the victims of a plague, bodies would be found. Only the normal number of burials have been uncovered.

Perhaps there was internal trouble. Possibly they were afraid of something. Whatever it was, they ran.

The Arizona experts certainly won't complete the excavation of the city this summer. It may take another dozen years," Dr. Haury says. "We are making progress, but it takes a heck of a lot of digging."

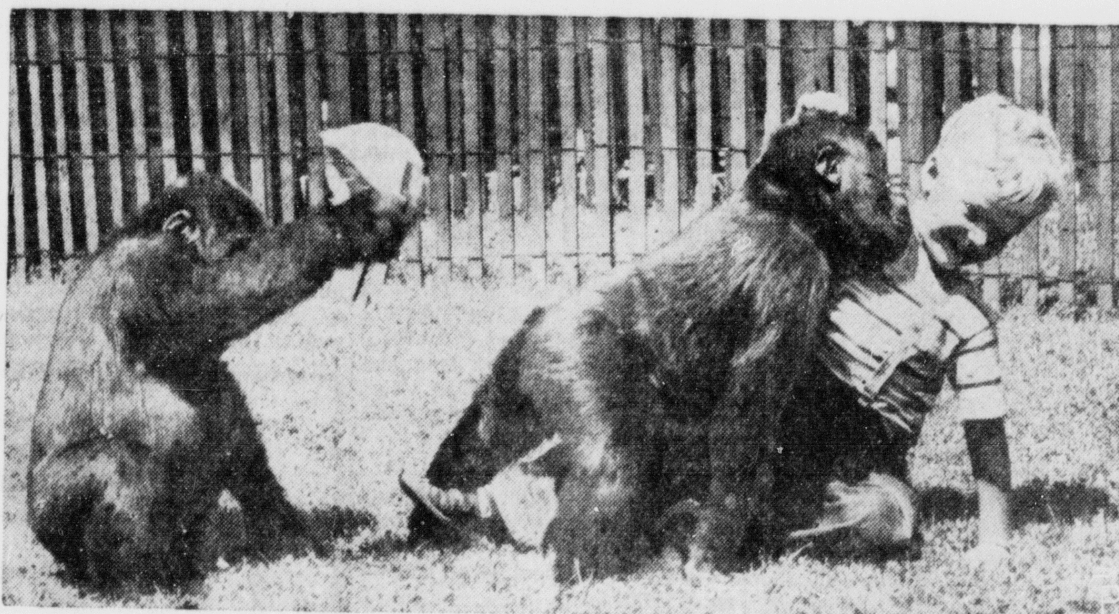

One theory about where the people went when they left the Point-of-Pines area is that they set up new communities in the Zuni country. That is on the Arizona-New Mexico border. If that is the case Haury suggests it is possible that they occupied the famed "Seven Cities of Cibola" long sought by the Spaniards.

Those cities were supposed to be rich in gold. But Haury says the Point-of-Pines people had no gold. In any case the reports received by Francisco Vasquez de Coronado and other Spaniards seem to have been exaggerated. The fabled seven cities probably were ordinary Indian villages -- if they existed at all. But the time elements check and the Point-of-Pines people might have built the communities which were reported as the "Seven Cities of Cibola."

Reds Rained Out Of Doubleheader

BY RALPH RODEN
(By The Associated Press)
Can the Boston Red Sox do it this time?

That's the question fans are asking today as the thrilling American League pennant race takes time out for the all-star game.

Once again the Red Sox are riding high, threatening to take command. But in the background is an old Red Sox jinx—an extended road trip, graveyard of Red Sox pennant hopes since 1946.

The Red Sox fanned anew their pennant dreams yesterday by beating the New York Yankees, 6-2. The victory was their eighth straight at home over the Yanks and the 13th in their last 17 starts.

BY WINNING, the Red Sox took over second place from the slumping Yanks and remained a game behind the front-running Chicago White Sox who posted a tough, 5-4 decision over the last-place St. Louis Browns.

The Yanks are two games behind, and their third place position is endangered by the onrushing Cleveland Indians who took a doubleheader from their Detroit Tiger "cousins", 8-3 and 10-2. The Indians are only four games out of first place.

The Red Sox open a 13-game swing through the west with a four-game series in Chicago starting with a two-night doubleheader Thursday.

While the American League race tightened up yesterday, the Brooklyn Dodgers pulled 3 1/2 games away from the runner-up New York Giants in the National.

THE DODGERS DOWNED the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-4, in ten innings as the Giants dropped a 6-5 decision to the Boston Braves, also in 10 innings.

The St. Louis Cardinals split a pair with the Pittsburgh Pirates, losing the opener, 6-2, but winning the nightcap, 9-8.

In remaining American League action, the Washington Senators humbled the Philadelphia Athletics twice, 3-1 and 8-2.

A crowd of 29,843 fans saw the Yanks nick Ray Scarborough, who turned in his second complete game of the season, for 3-0 lead in four innings. But two-run homers by Lou Boudreau and Clyde Vollmer in the fifth and sixth innings off Vic Raschi turned the tide for the Red Sox. Vic Raschi was charged with his sixth loss.

Early Wynn and Mike Garcia turned back the Tigers before 41, 154 in Detroit. The Indians scored five runs in the seventh inning on five hits and a walk to snap a 3-3 tie and win the opener.

Mike Garcia went to his tenth victory in the nightcap, called after eight innings because of darkness. Larry Doby supplied the punch with a pair of home runs. The Indians now have won 13 of 14 from the Tigers.

THE CINCINNATI REDS will buck back to their old stomping grounds at Crosley Field Tuesday night, but it will be for only a short while.

The Reds, rained out of Sunday's scheduled doubleheader with the Cubs are to engage the Washington Senators under the lights in Cincinnati in an exhibition game. It will be the third annual benefit contest for the greater Cincinnati amateur baseball fund.

Money taken in at the game provides baseballs and equipment for teen-agers, who play on more than 500 amateur teams in a dozen leagues.

Welders Shut Out; Home Run Does It

A home run in the bottom half of the fourth inning spelled defeat for the Welding School softball team Friday evening when they played the Jamestown American Legion on the latter's diamond. The final score read 1 to 0 for the visitors.

Bob Hall, who pitched for the Welders, gave up only three hits during the game, one of them being the homer by Cline.

Manion, the winning pitcher for the Jamestown team, gave up six hits, one of them a triple by Shaw. But the Welders couldn't get a man further than that.

Wilmington Wins From Moose, 10-6

Wilmington's SWO baseball team turned the tables on the Washington C. H. Moose at Wilmington Sunday when they won 10 to 6, by staging a 5-run rally in the eighth inning.

The Moose had trounced the Wilmingtonians in their July 4 holiday playoff of a postponed game.

The Wilmington boys clipped the Dawes brothers, Kenny and Bob, for a total of 13 hits. The Moose matched that with their attack on the two Wilmington hurlers.

The Moose will take on Chillicothe, co-leaders of the race right now with Blanchester, at Good Hope next Sunday.

Shutout Handed To Jeffersonville

Jeffersonville took a shellacking Sunday afternoon as they went down under third place Greenfield, 7 to 0, on the Jeff diamond.

Neither Harold Knecht, the losing pitcher, nor Dumford could hold the Greenfielders down. They gave up a total of nine hits.

Borst, the winning pitcher, went all out as he collected 13 strikeouts while not giving any walks.

This loss gives Jeffersonville five wins and the same number of losses.

Bowersville will be the next visitors to the Jeffersonville diamond when they play next Sunday afternoon.

King-Kash Girls Win at Greenfield

The King-Kash girls came out on top of a 20 to 18 slugfest with the Chillicothe Rockets on the Greenfield diamond Sunday afternoon.

This is the first win for the girls in two starts. They lost their opener 4 to 3 to Hillsboro here last Friday evening.

The substitutes gave a good account of themselves when only about half the regular team showed up for the game.

All-Star Game Sellout Certain

Players and Owners To Hold Confab, too

DETROIT, July 9 —(AP)—Baseball's top players, assembling for Tuesday's all-star game between the National and American Leagues, will combine business with pleasure.

Even while Managers Eddie Sawyer of the National and Casey Stengel of the American are announcing their starting pitchers and batting orders, player representatives of all 16 clubs, for the first time, will sit down with the owners to discuss common problems. Many of the delegates are members of the all-star cast.

Detroit's Freddie Hutchinson, American League player representative, is a candidate for starting honors. Stengel, however, is expected to name either Ned Garver, St. Louis righthander, or southpaw Ed Lopat of his own New York Yankees. Don Newcombe, big Brooklyn righthander, is expected to be Sawyer's selection. The rest of the lineup is already set by a vote of over 4,000,000 fans.

THE GAME IS ASSURED of a sellout of some 52,000. The receipts are expected to approach $150,000, already pigeonholed for the player pension fund. The same fund also gets the $6,000,000 television fee for next six World Series and all-star games.

The players do not wish to change that but want a bigger slice of the World Series gate receipts.

Under the present division of Series receipts, the commissioner's office gets the first 15 percent. Sixty percent of the balance from the first four games only goes to the players.

Hutchinson pointed out that the winning share last year was roughly $5,700. Back in 1924, the winning slice was $5,900. He said the dollar of 1924 was worth more than the dollar of 1951.

The players also were anxious for the owners to name a successor to A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who will vacate the commissioner's office next Sunday. They have come to regard the commissioner's office as the great protector of their interests.

Girl Friend of Gang Indulges in Tantrum

DENVER, July 9—(AP)—More bad news awaited red-headed Virginia Hall today as she flew home-ward after a day of alternately tossing punches at reporters and tearfully telling them that all she wants is "ordinary life."

For good measure, investigators for the Denver district attorney detained the onetime girl friend of gangsters briefly.

At Spokane, her home was seized by the federal government for alleged non-payment of $161,000 in back income taxes.

Her plans to visit friends in El Paso, Tex., were ruined when reporters learned of her presence in the border city. She tossed a shoe at one, slapped another and boarded a plane for Denver, enroute to Spokane.

BY RAY BRANDENBURG
If you're heading for the woods, we'd like to suggest that you treat campfires, matches and "smokes" with care. Every year acres of fields and forest are ruined by fire. With trees gone, water that might be held in the soil by roots runs downstream and out to sea. Along with it go tons of rich topsoil that takes years to replace. Drouths are encouraged and wildlife is destroyed. So we lose more ways than a country cousin with a bunch of city slickers. The wilderness lands of America belong to us all . . . and to the millions of future Americans. This summer let's keep our forests green.

Last week I mentioned we were going fishing. The boys (Dale, Wayne, and Bill) along with myself and Joe Fortier hiked ourselves up to Lake Erie at Port Clinton. A war buddy of Dale's, Gene Bolte, had all arrangements made. So away we go pickering fishing and believe it or not we caught fish. The first evening we came in with one hundred pounds of pickerel. The second day was rather rough, wind and waves were high. Nobody was talking but all at once Joe turned a sort of frog color green. Next he surreptitiously removed his false teeth. From here on use your imagination. When lunch time came and a nice baked ham with all the trimmings was set out it seemed for some unaccountable reason, no one was hungry. It was a nice experience and a good time was had by all. We spent the 4th at Lake Cowan. It's really a beautiful lake. We chauffeured grandchildren most of the day. In the evening took Joe and Marie Fortier and my wife a spin. All went well until we docked. My wife showed us a new technique as to the method of getting out of a boat. She fell full length on the dock. I insisted no one laugh until she got up, even then she didn't appreciate our giggles.

In the big N. Y. price war a leading seller at Macy's was aspirin at 4c per 100. We'd guess the storekeepers needed it even more than the customers. Our customers who own CHEVROLETs assure us that it's the one car that gives smoother driving, smarter driving, and economical driving. Be smart . . . make your car a CHEVROLET. R. Firemen were called to the Dr. J. H. Persinger farm, a few miles west of Washington C. H. on the CCC Highway Saturday evening, where a hayfield was on fire.

They found many people from the surrounding community battling the flames to prevent them from spreading and the work of spraying the outer ring of the fire with water from the tank truck was started at once. Within a short time the fire had been extinguished.

More than seven acres of the hayfield had been burned over and the hay consumed before the fire was extinguished.

She described what she enjoyed most about the camp life. Her voice and those of other women in the camp will be heard over the station from 9 to 9:30 A. M. Wednesday.

Taft Writing Book

(Continued from Page One) stands on any foreign policy issue can thumb through copies of his speeches and he's just saving them the trouble by compiling his views between two covers.

Those views have been uniformly critical of the Truman administration's handling of international issues which he blamed recently for creating "the disastrous crisis in which we now find ourselves".

An advocate of air and sea power, Taft opposed taking the initiative in building up a European defense army but agreed to go along on furnishing a few divisions. He can be expected to lay the blame for present Asiatic difficulties on the shoulders of the Roosevelt administration.

City School Problems To Be Discussed

A group of between 25 and 30 residents of Washington C. H., has been asked to meet with the city school board at 7:30 P. M. (tonight) Monday, to discuss some of the problems related to a possible building expansion program.

The meeting, to be held in the library of the high school (North Street entrance), is to give particular attention to the report made to the board following a survey of needs about a year ago.

The board is to meet at 7 P. M. Tuesday, in the office of the superintendent.

While congestion in the schools and the building program are expected to receive the major attention, the implications of legislation, approved at the last session of the Legislature, setting a minimum teacher salary schedule for the state also may be taken up.

Supt. Stephen Brown, who issued the invitations to the meeting for the board, said it would be informal and that it was designed for "complete freedom of expression of views on school problems."

Indications were that the views expressed by those at the meeting would serve as a guide for the board in laying its plans for the future.

No conclusions and no formal action was expected to be taken by the group or the board at the meeting.

Busy Beavers Plan Fair Booth

The group talked about decorating the booth and Ann Ducey, Mela Weatherly and Portia Brownell were selected to get wallboard.

Everyone went out to the Fairgrounds and measured their space in the 4-H area.

Sally Reiff and Portia Brownell served refreshments when the group returned to the Baer home.

The members decided to have a swimming party for their next meeting. They will meet at the swimming pool next Thursday afternoon.
